

Project Problem Statement

Overview

College students often struggle with staying organized, keeping track of deadlines, and maintaining consistent study habits. With multiple classes, assignments, exams, work responsibilities, and personal obligations, it becomes easy to lose sight of what needs to be done and when.

The Core Issue

Lack of centralized task management leads to missed deadlines, last-minute cramming, inefficient workflows, and academic stress. Students rely on scattered tools such as notes, phone reminders, Canvas notifications, and memory—none of which provide a unified solution.

Purpose of the Project

The project aims to develop a study and productivity app that consolidates academic deadlines, breaks large assignments into smaller actionable steps, and provides timely reminders. The tool will support effective time management and help students stay consistently on task.
